Parent Note: Ask your child to write the spelling words correctly on the blank lines.

Throughout the coming weeks, encourage your child to write frequently. Some topics he or she will enjoy writing about are a favorite toy, a day at school, or a book you have read together. Have your child read his or her writing to you. Praise your child for the thoughts expressed. Not correcting your child's spelling mistakes will help him or her focus on the content of the writing and feel more comfortable about expressing himself or herself.
