

Your and You're

Decide whether the underlined word is used correctly in the following sentences. If it is used correctly, choose correct. If it is used incorrectly, choose the correct word. Mark your answer on the answer sheet.

1. What is you're favorite baseball team?
A your C correct
B you're
2. I think your a fan of the Boston Red Sox.
A your C correct
B you're
3. Yes, and you're a fan of the New York Yankees.
A your C correct
B you're
4. That means you're my enemy!
A your C correct
B you're
5. I heard that you're going to a Red Sox game this summer.
A your C correct
B you're
6. Is you're father taking you?
A your C correct
B you're
7. No, you're uncle is taking me.
A your C correct
B you're
8. Do you have any Yankees posters in your bedroom?
A your C correct
B you're
9. Your folder has a lot of Red Sox stickers on it!
A Your C correct
B You're
10. I bet you're going to watch the Yankees-Red Sox game tonight!
A your C correct
B you're
11. We should watch it over at you're house.
A your C correct
B you're
12. Will your brother be there, too?
A your C correct
B you're
13. He likes the Yankees, so he can cheer on you're team.
A your C correct
B you're
14. Do you think your mom will make us some popcorn?
A your C correct
B you're
15. Your going to have a fun night together!
A Your C correct
B You're