Name _____

Level F
Lesson 8

Appositives

Decide whether the underlined group of words is an appositive, a prepositional phrase, or none of these. Mark your answer on the answer sheet.

1. Nickelodeon, a cable network for kids, began in 1979.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

2. It first appeared on television on April 1st, April Fools' Day.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

3. The first kids who could watch lived in Columbus, Ohio.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

4. "You Can't Do that on Television," the network's first popular show, hit the air in 1982.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

5. This became the favorite show of children around the country.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

6. On this show, cast members were often slimed.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

7. The slime was dumped on them whenever they said, "I don't know."
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

8. This show inspired the network's next hit show, "Double Dare."
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

9. The network began showing "Double Dare" in 1986.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

10. On this show, kids were challenged with trivia and obstacle courses.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

11. "Double Dare" also used slime, just like "You Can't Do that on Television".
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

12. After a few days, "Double Dare" was more popular than the first show!
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

13. In 1987, Nickelodeon started the Kids Choice Awards, an awards show.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

14. On this show, kids got to choose their favorites from the celebrity world.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

15. In 1991, Nickelodeon introduced the network's own cartoons, "Doug" and "Rugrats."
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

16. You can watch these great cartoons even today!
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

17. They have a great Internet site, Nick.com.
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

18. Are you a fan of Nickelodeon?
A appositive C none
B prepositional phrase

Copyright © Zaner-Bloser, Inc.